

SENTI BIOSCIENCES, INC.

CORPORATE COMMUNICATIONS POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

To ensure that the disclosures of material information about Senti Biosciences, Inc. (the “Company”) by its directors, officers and employees are made fairly and in compliance with federal securities laws, the Company has adopted these policies and procedures. These Corporate Communications Policies and Procedures are distributed to all of the Company’s directors, officers and employees and consist of: (i) a statement of the Company’s policies regarding the disclosure of material nonpublic information and (ii) a set of procedures the Company has implemented with respect to all forms of public disclosure, including filings with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”), press releases, conference calls, webcasts, presentations, one-on-one communications, responses to inquiries, website postings, and postings to social media.¹ These Corporate Communications Policies and Procedures, which are components of the Company’s overall disclosure controls and procedures, will be evaluated from time to time by the Board of Directors of the Company (the “Board”) and may be revised as necessary.

These Corporate Communications Policies and Procedures do not replace the primary responsibility of each employee to understand and comply with the prohibitions on selective disclosure and other disclosure obligations under the federal securities laws. All directors, officers and employees should also carefully review the Company’s Insider Trading Policy and Disclosure Committee Guidelines, Corporate Governance Guidelines, and Code of Business Conduct and Ethics, which also contain provisions relating to the proper disclosure of material information relating to the Company.

If you have any questions on these Corporate Communications Policies and Procedures or with respect to your obligations under federal securities laws generally, please contact the Company’s designated Communications Policy Compliance Officer, who is responsible for enforcing the Corporate Communications Policies and Procedures. The Company has initially designated Deb Knobelman, its Chief Financial Officer, as the Communications Policy Compliance Officer. If the last-designated Communications Policy Compliance Officer has ceased to be employed by the Company, please contact the Company’s principal executive officer with any questions you may have.

¹ Social Media is any tool or service that facilitates conversations over the internet. Examples of Social Media include but are not limited to Facebook, Twitter, YouTube, Instagram, LinkedIn, blogs, web pages, forums, chatrooms and wikis.

A. CORPORATE COMMUNICATIONS POLICIES

1. Regulation FD Compliance

It is the policy of the Company that material nonpublic information about the Company may not be disclosed on a selective basis consistent with the SEC’s Fair Disclosure Regulation (“Regulation FD”).² Regulation FD requires that whenever a “senior official” of the Company intentionally discloses “material nonpublic” information about the Company to “market participants” or stockholders, the Company must widely disseminate that information to the public at large either simultaneously or in advance.³ Regulation FD also requires that whenever material nonpublic information has been inadvertently disclosed by senior officials on a selective basis to market participants or stockholders, the Company must promptly disclose that same information to the general public. Regulation FD does not apply to disclosures made to persons who owe a duty of trust or confidence to the issuer (e.g., the Company’s attorneys, auditors or advisors or persons who have agreed in writing to maintain the confidentiality of communicated information).⁴

- “Senior officials” include any director (including any non-employee director), executive officer, investor relations or public relations officer or other person with similar functions. Senior officials may not avoid the prohibitions of Regulation FD by directing others, including lower level employees, to make a disclosure.
- Information is “material” if there is a substantial likelihood that a reasonable investor would consider the information important to a decision to buy, hold or sell stock and would therefore be likely to affect the price of the stock. Either positive or negative information may be material. Material developments often relate to earnings results or expectations, financial forecasts, mergers, acquisitions, tender offers, joint ventures, changes in assets or divestitures, clinical trial updates, regulatory updates, the introduction of a new product candidate or new scientific or clinical discoveries, changes in relationships with major licensors, licensees or other collaborators, disputes or changes with major suppliers, major personnel changes, changes in auditors or notification that the Company may no longer rely on an auditor's audit report, public offerings, private sales or repurchases of debt or equity securities, changes in the rights of outstanding securities, major financing developments, government investigations, or the threat or settlement of major litigation.

² The SEC has provided guidance that confirms that Regulation FD applies to social media and other emerging means of communication used by public companies the same way it applies to company websites. A press release concerning that guidance, along with a link to the SEC’s Report of Investigation, can be found at <http://www.sec.gov/news/press/2013/2013-51.htm>.

⁴ The SEC has provided guidance that such an agreement need not contain an agreement not to trade on the information or an acknowledgement that the recipient will not use the information in violation of federal securities laws. The recipient of the information need only expressly agree to keep the information confidential.

- Information is “non-public” if it has not been disseminated in a manner making it available to investors generally on a broad-based, non-exclusionary basis.
- “Market participants” include broker-dealers (including employees of broker-dealers, such as analysts and investment bankers), investment advisers, institutional investment managers and investment companies, including venture capital funds.

Monetary penalties and other sanctions may be imposed on both the Company and its senior officials if (a) material nonpublic information is intentionally disclosed on a selective basis and at the time of disclosure the senior official either knew or was reckless in not knowing that the information was both material and nonpublic, or (b) material nonpublic information is inadvertently disclosed on a selective basis and then not subsequently publicly disclosed if the senior official learns of the inadvertent disclosure and knows or was reckless in not knowing that the information was both material and nonpublic. Accordingly, it is the policy of the Company to immediately disclose material information by broadly disseminated press release and a Current Report on Form 8-K (a “Form 8-K”) after it discovers that any such information has been disclosed on a selective basis (and in no event after the later of 24 hours or the commencement of the next day’s trading). The Communications Policy Compliance Officer is authorized to immediately investigate, analyze and act upon any inadvertent or unauthorized disclosures in violation of these Corporate Communications Policies and Procedures.

2. Disclosure Controls and Procedures

It is the policy of the Company that all information required to be disclosed in the reports that it files or submits under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, and other public communications must be accurate and complete in all material respects and comply in all material respects with the securities laws of the United States. In furtherance of this policy, the Company intends to maintain disclosure controls and procedures that govern its disclosures to the SEC and to the public generally. These disclosure controls and procedures are designed to ensure that all information that may be required to be disclosed under applicable securities laws and securities exchange requirements is:

- reported to the individuals in the Company responsible for the preparation of the Company’s SEC reports and other public communications;
- analyzed to determine whether public disclosure is appropriate; and
- if appropriate, disclosed in a timely and accurate manner and in compliance with Regulation FD and other securities laws and stock exchange requirements.

The Company intends to create and will maintain a Disclosure Committee to assist in reviewing and evaluating the Company’s public disclosures. The Disclosure Committee will operate under a set of Disclosure Committee Guidelines to monitor and review the accuracy and completeness of the public disclosures made by the Company. The Disclosure Committee will consist of individuals appointed from time to time by the Board or the Company’s principal executive officer or principal financial officer.

If you are unsure at any time as to whether you are in possession of material nonpublic information about the Company or if you are aware of events that you believe may raise disclosure issues, you should contact the Communications Policy Compliance Officer or a member of the Disclosure Committee, as applicable, for clarification.

3. Company Spokespersons

It is the policy of the Company that only the executive officers of the Company (which shall initially be Timothy Lu, the Company's Chief Executive Officer; Curt Herberts, the Company's Chief Operating Officer; Philip Lee, the Company's Chief Technology Officer and Deborah Knobelman, the Company's Chief Financial Officer) and certain other employees designated by them (collectively, the "Company Spokespersons") are authorized to speak on behalf of the Company with any market participant, member of the media or stockholder. The Company Spokespersons may designate certain other employees or representatives of the Company to speak with specific market participants or members of the media with respect to specific aspects of the Company's business. Requests for information about the Company should in all cases be directed promptly to a Company Spokesperson. This centralization of communication is designed to ensure that the information the Company discloses is accurate and considered in light of previous disclosures. Formal announcements, such as SEC filings, press releases and presentations, are generally reviewed by management and legal counsel before they are made public. Any communications that do not go through this review process create an increased risk of civil and criminal liability to the Company and to the individual responsible for the communication.

Only Company Spokespersons are authorized to have substantive discussions about any aspect of the Company's business with any market participant, member of the media or stockholder. The Company's employees may not disclose or discuss any material nonpublic information about the Company or its activities with any person outside the Company, except as may be required in connection with the proper performance by the employee of his or her duties on behalf of the Company (e.g., a clinical person can discuss topics related to a planned or ongoing clinical trial with a principal investigator). However, if an employee of the Company believes that he or she has or will communicate particularly sensitive non-public information about the Company to a third-party business contact, the employee should contact the Communications Policy Compliance Officer immediately. In addition, if an employee becomes aware that an unauthorized disclosure of material nonpublic information about the Company was made on a selective basis, the employee should immediately notify the Communications Policy Compliance Officer or a member of the Disclosure Committee, as applicable.

4. No Comment Policy

It is the policy of the Company that it will not comment on rumors concerning Company developments, including, without limitation, rumors concerning (i) offerings of its securities, (ii) mergers, acquisitions or other strategic transactions, including license or other collaboration transactions, (iii) its clinical programs, (iv) its preclinical and clinical or regulatory advancement of any of its product candidates or (v) its financial performance, except as approved by a Company Spokesperson (or a designee of such Company Spokesperson) after consultation with the Communications Policy Compliance Officer or a member of the Disclosure Committee, as applicable. It is also the policy of the Company not to comment on similar matters related to its competitors.

5. Social Media

The Company is committed to preventing inadvertent disclosures of material nonpublic information, preventing unwitting participation in Internet-based securities fraud, and avoiding the appearance of impropriety by persons associated with the Company. The use of social media platforms, chat rooms, blogs and other websites requires extra vigilance to ensure employees do not communicate in a way that violates these Communications Policies and Procedures.

Accordingly, except where previously authorized in writing or as expressly approved by a Company Spokesperson after consultation with the Communications Policy Compliance Officer, directors, officers and employees are prohibited from making any comments on or posting anything on social media platforms, chat rooms, blogs and other websites or any other medium in the name of the Company or in a manner that could reasonably be attributed to the Company, or responding to comments or postings made by others about the Company's or its competitors' business. These restrictions apply whether or not you identify yourself as associated with the Company.⁵

The Company may use social media in connection with its business, but such use must be limited to only certain employees and purposes as authorized by senior management. Should a director, officer or employee find mistakes or erroneous information concerning material, non-public information about the Company disseminated via social media, such individual should not try to "correct the record." Rather such mistake or erroneous information should be reported to the Communications Policy Compliance Officer.

If material nonpublic information is inadvertently disclosed via a social media platform, chat room, blog or other medium, the Communications Policy Compliance Officer will work with the Disclosure Committee, as applicable, to immediately (and in no event after the later of 24 hours or the commencement of the next day's trading) disclose such information by broadly disseminated press release and Form 8-K. The Company's Communications Policy Compliance Officer is authorized to immediately investigate, analyze and act upon any unintentional or unauthorized disclosures in violation of these Corporate Communications Policies and Procedures.

B. CORPORATE COMMUNICATIONS PROCEDURES

These Corporate Communications Procedures are designed to ensure that the Company's public disclosures are presented fully and fairly and in compliance with Regulation FD and all other securities laws and stock exchange requirements. These procedures apply to all forms of the ⁵ Senior management must be particularly careful in this regard. Even when posting on personal Social Media pages, senior management may be deemed to be speaking on behalf of the Company for purposes of the federal securities laws. It is thus imperative that no senior management provide material non-public information through Social Media except where previously authorized in consultation with the Compliance Officer and/or legal counsel. Senior management should, prior to any posting to Social Media about the Company, carefully and thoughtfully weigh the risk that such post could contain any information the disclosure of which could violate the federal securities laws, and should consult with the Compliance Officer and/or legal counsel prior to such posting, where appropriate.

Company's public disclosure, such as SEC filings, press releases, conference calls, webcasts, presentations, one-on-one communications, responses to inquiries, website postings, and postings to social media ("Company Statements").

1. SEC Filings

The Disclosure Committee will be responsible for reviewing and supervising the preparation of the Company's annual, quarterly and current reports, proxy statements, information statements, registration statements and other information filed with the SEC. The procedures for ensuring the appropriate preparation of the Company's SEC filings are set forth in the Disclosure Committee Guidelines. The Disclosure Committee and Communications Policy Compliance Officer will also be responsible for determining if an event or circumstance warrants the filing of a Form 8-K to meet the Company's SEC reporting obligations, including, for example, and without limitation, the determination whether in the context of soliciting shareholder proxies, certain financing or other transactions, communications need to be filed with the SEC or whether, as a result of the disclosure of material non-public information, communications need to be filed with the SEC.

2. Press Releases

When the Company wishes to disclose material nonpublic information to the public, it is important that the information be widely distributed to comply with SEC requirements and stock exchange requirements. The normal means of such distribution should be a press release. The content of all press releases should be approved by the Disclosure Committee and reviewed by investor relations personnel and legal counsel. Information contained in the press release may also be widely distributed by filing or furnishing the information with or to the SEC in a Form 8-K. The Disclosure Committee will be responsible for determining whether a press release should also be filed or furnished using a Form 8-K.

Press releases regarding the Company's historical financial results or earnings or guidance about future financial performance must be furnished on a Form 8-K with the SEC within four business days of such release. The issuance of such press releases should be made not more than 48 hours prior to any conference call or webcast relating to such release and the related Form 8-K will be filed or furnished with the SEC prior to any such conference call or webcast, in order to avoid having to also furnish a transcript of such conference call or webcast to the SEC.

Each press release should be carefully reviewed to determine if it contains any non-GAAP financial measures. Any press releases that contain any non-GAAP financial measures must include the most directly comparable GAAP measure in an equally or more prominent presentation and a quantitative reconciliation, by schedule or other clearly understandable method, of the differences between the non-GAAP financial measure and the most directly comparable GAAP measure. In addition, the Company will provide a statement of the reasons why management believes that each non-GAAP financial measure provides useful information to investors and, if applicable, a statement of additional purposes for which management uses each non-GAAP financial measure. The earnings press release or other announcement (along with any required Regulation G disclosures for any non-GAAP financial measures to be discussed during the call or webcast that were not included in the earnings press release) should be posted on the Company's website not later than the time of the conference call or webcast.

Each press release that contains a forward-looking statement by the Company should also include the following required “safe harbor” disclosures for protection under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 consistent with the example set forth below:

Statements we make in this press release may include statements which are not historical facts and are considered forward-looking within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act, which are usually identified by the use of words such as “anticipates,” “believes,” “estimates,” “expects,” “intends,” “may,” “plans,” “projects,” “seeks,” “should,” “will,” and variations of such words or similar expressions. We intend these forward-looking statements to be covered by the safe harbor provisions for forward-looking statements contained in Section 27A of the Securities Act and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act and are making this statement for purposes of complying with those safe harbor provisions. These forward-looking statements reflect our current views about our plans, intentions, expectations, strategies and prospects, which are based on the information currently available to us and on assumptions we have made. Although we believe that our plans, intentions, expectations, strategies and prospects as reflected in or suggested by those forward-looking statements are reasonable, we can give no assurance that the plans, intentions, expectations or strategies will be attained or achieved. Furthermore, actual results may differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements and will be affected by a variety of risks and factors that are beyond our control including, without limitation, [list all factors], as well as those set forth in [the prospectus for our recent offering of common stock that was filed with the SEC on [___]] [Item 1A. Risk Factors of our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, [___], as updated by our subsequently filed Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q and our other SEC filings]. We assume no obligation to update publicly any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.

Nasdaq rules require that the Company provide notification of certain planned material news announcements to the StockWatch section of Nasdaq’s MarketWatch department at least ten (10) minutes prior to the release of such information. In the event of unusual or very material disclosure, it is possible and at times desirable for trading to be halted for a short period of time while the information is publicly disseminated and the market has the opportunity to review the information. Whether a trading halt is appropriate is a matter that should be discussed with the Communications Policy Compliance Officer, who, together with other senior management, will be responsible for discussing with Nasdaq.

All press releases should, at a minimum, be provided to the major wire services (e.g., Dow Jones, Bloomberg, Reuters, AP, UPI and Business Wire) as well as the local press. All press releases should be kept available on the Company’s website for a period of at least twelve (12) months, with older information archived in a designated “archive” section on the Company’s website with appropriate disclaimers, including a disclaimer of any duty to update.

3. Conference Calls, Webcasts and Presentations

In connection with the issuance of a press release reporting the Company’s quarterly financial results, the Company in its discretion will conduct a conference call to discuss our results of operations and related matters unless otherwise determined by the Disclosure Committee or the Communications Policy Compliance Officer. From time to time, the Disclosure Committee may determine that additional conference calls are appropriate in order to discuss material Company developments. In addition, Company Spokespersons may make presentations at industry or investor conferences or join related conference calls or webcasts. The following are guidelines related to quarterly earnings calls and other conference calls, webcasts or presentations:

- The Company should prepare and utilize scripts for conference calls, webcasts and presentations at industry or investor conferences, which must be reviewed in advance by the Communications Policy Compliance Officer and, if applicable, by members of the Disclosure Committee and legal counsel.
- The Company will make an announcement, via a press release using newswire services or other means to ensure broad dissemination, a “reasonable period of time” before each conference call, webcast or presentation in which material nonpublic information may be disclosed.⁶ Such announcement will disclose the date and time of the call, webcast or presentation, the subject matter and instructions for how to access the call, webcast or presentation.
- Where material nonpublic information regarding the Company is likely to be disclosed at a presentation to be made at an investor or industry conference, the Company will webcast the presentation (preceded by advance public notice) or, prior to or simultaneously with such conference, issue a broadly disseminated press release or file or furnish a Form 8-K with the SEC disclosing such information.
- If oral disclosures, including non-GAAP financial measures, will be made during a conference call, webcast or presentation, the Company will post any quantitative reconciliation requirement of Regulation G on its website not later than simultaneously with the disclosure of the non-GAAP financial measure and will advise the conference call, webcast or presentation audience of the availability and location of this disclosure during the call, webcast or presentation. In addition, each conference call, webcast or presentation that includes a non-GAAP financial measure should be preceded by the following statement:

On this [conference call, webcast or presentation] we may refer to certain non-GAAP financial measures, such as [list non-GAAP financial measures to be used]. You can find a tabular reconciliation of these non-GAAP financial measures to the most directly comparable GAAP measures [in our earnings release][on the investor relations page of our website].

- Each conference call, webcast and presentation that contains or is likely to contain a forward-looking statement by the Company should be preceded by a statement containing the following required “safe harbor” disclosures for protection under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 consistent with the example set forth below:

Before we begin I would like to briefly discuss the use of forward-looking statements on this conference call. Statements we make on this call may include statements which are not historical facts and are considered forward-looking within the meaning of the securities laws, and which are usually identified by the use of words such as “anticipates,” “believes,” “estimates,” “expects,” “intends,” “may,” “plans,” “projects,” “seeks,” “should,” “will,” and variations of such words or similar expressions. We intend these forward-looking statements to be covered by the safe harbor provisions for forward-looking statements contained in Section 27A of the Securities Act and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act and are making this statement for purposes of complying with those safe harbor provisions. These forward-looking statements reflect our current views about our plans, intentions, expectations, strategies and prospects, which are based on the information currently available to us and on assumptions we have made. Although we believe that our plans, intentions, expectations, strategies and prospects as reflected in or suggested by those forward-looking statements are reasonable, we can give no assurance that the plans, intentions, expectations or strategies will be attained or achieved. Furthermore, actual results may differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements and will be affected by a variety of risks and factors that are beyond our control including, without limitation, those set forth in [our earnings release issued earlier today][the prospectus for our recent offering of common stock that was filed with the SEC on [__]] [Item 1A. Risk Factors of our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, [__], as updated by our subsequently filed Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q and our other SEC filings]. We assume no obligation to update publicly any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.

- Conference calls will be accessible by dial-in conference call or by Internet simulcast and archived on the Company's website for 30 days.

If material nonpublic information is inadvertently disclosed on a selective basis on a conference call or webcast or at a presentation at an investor or industry conference, the Communications Policy Compliance Officer will work with the Disclosure Committee to immediately (and in no event after the later of 24 hours or the commencement of the next day's trading) disclose such information by broadly disseminated press release and Form 8-K.⁷ The Company's Communications Policy Compliance Officer is authorized to immediately investigate, analyze and act upon any unintentional or unauthorized disclosures in violation of these Corporate Communications Policies and Procedures.

4. One-On-One Communications

No director, officer or employee of the Company may intentionally disclose material nonpublic information in one-on-one meetings or telephone calls with market participants or stockholders. Whenever practicable, at any formal scheduled one-on-one meeting, at least one officer or other designee (such as an internal or external investor relations representative) of the Company, in addition to the Company Spokesperson, should be present at all such calls or meetings to facilitate immediate detection of inadvertent disclosures of material nonpublic information on a selective basis. Company Spokespersons and other Company participants present at such calls or meetings should have a clear understanding of the information publicly disclosed by the Company, limit the discussion to that information and avoid implicit indirect and nonverbal communication, by tone or gesture.

The Company should generally endeavor to prepare and utilize scripts or talking points for all one-on-one calls or meetings with analysts, stockholders or potential investors. All scripts and other materials to be used for such calls or meetings must be reviewed in advance by the ⁷ The SEC has provided guidance that the presence of the press at a non-public meeting, such as an industry conference, does not render that meeting "public" for Regulation FD purposes.

Communications Policy Compliance Officer and, if appropriate, by members of the Disclosure Committee and legal counsel. Participants should be informed prior to or at the beginning of each such call or meeting of the Company's disclosure policy and the topics that are off-limits (in accordance with these procedures or otherwise). Where material nonpublic information is likely to be disclosed at a one-on-one call or meeting, the Company will, prior to or simultaneously with such call or meeting, issue a broadly disseminated press release or file or furnish a Form 8-K with the SEC disclosing such information.

If material nonpublic information is inadvertently disclosed on a selective basis during a one-on-one call or meeting with analysts, stockholders or potential investors, the Communications Policy Compliance Officer or his or her designees will work with the Disclosure Committee to immediately (and in no event after the later of 24 hours or the commencement of the next day's trading) disclose such information by broadly disseminated press release and Form 8-K. The Company's Communications Policy Compliance Officer is authorized to immediately investigate, analyze and act upon any non-intentional or unauthorized disclosures in violation of these Corporate Communications Policies and Procedures.

5. Responses to Inquiries

Oral responses to inquiries concerning the business, legal or other matters of the Company shall be limited to that information that has been made publicly available and shall be made only by Company Spokespersons. The Company will not comment on rumors concerning Company developments, including, without limitation, rumors concerning its preclinical and clinical results, financial performance, public offerings of its securities or acquisitions or similar developments related to its competitors. It is the Company's policy not to (i) discuss or confirm, on a nonpublic basis, earnings estimates older than a very few days unless an updating release has been publicly disclosed or (ii) provide more specific material nonpublic quantitative (or numerical) guidance regarding qualitative terms that have been used in prior public disclosure. The Company will repeat or reaffirm only previously disclosed historical information about the Company when educating the public or third parties about the Company or when correcting misstatements about the Company.

If requested by an analyst to review a research report, the Company will not comment except to correct errors of fact and will not comment in any way on an analyst's forecasts or judgments. For major stockholders or others who need special access to information relating to the Company that has not been previously disseminated broadly to the public, the Company will endeavor to enter into confidentiality agreements. While these procedures do not prohibit Company Spokespersons from exchanging email correspondence with market participants or stockholders, these individuals should exercise particular caution when doing so.

6. Postings on the Company's Website

The Company will treat all disclosures on the Company's website like press releases and other written Company Statements. The Company Spokespersons will be responsible for reviewing and maintaining the content of all corporate-controlled web pages, approving all new material postings and directing the removal of any previously-posted, "stale" information. Before posting information on the Company's website, the Company Spokespersons will be responsible for ensuring that appropriate public disclosure has been made of any such information that could include or refer to material nonpublic information.

Company Spokespersons will be responsible for reviewing all links to the third party websites. By linking to third-party websites, there is a risk that the Company may be deemed to have “adopted” or “endorsed” statements made on that third-party website for purposes of the federal securities laws. Accordingly, Company Spokesperson will be responsible for ensuring that an “exit screen” is used for all third-party links. Such exit screen could read as follows:

Exit

You are leaving the Senti Biosciences, Inc. website. You may return to the Senti Biosciences, Inc. website by [using the “Back” button on your Web browser toolbar] [closing the window to the third-party website that you have opened]. Do you wish to continue?

[YES] [NO]

When you are ready to return to the Senti Biosciences, Inc. website, simply [click the “Back” button on the toolbar of your Web browser until you are back where you left off] [close the window to the third-party website that you have opened].

Even though the Company controls much of the content on official Company social media pages, such as LinkedIn or Twitter, the Company does not control all the information on such websites, and, in addition, cannot provide a click-through exit screen for links to additional third-party sites present on such social media sites. As a result, Company Spokespersons will be responsible for ensuring that “exit screens” are used for links to all third-party websites, including official Company social media sites.

In determining whether to post links to third-party websites, Company Spokespersons must be careful not to “cherry-pick” among extant coverage and post only the most favorable information to the Company. This principle applies whether the Company is linking to news articles, analyst reports, scholarly papers or any other third-party information concerning the Company. This principle applies whether such links are provided on the Company website or official Company social media pages. The purpose of not cherry-picking is to avoid the risk that shareholders or the SEC find the Company’s disclosures materially misleading due to omissions.

7. Social Media

The Company will not disclose new material information through social media, except as part of a broader communications protocol. Before posting information on any corporate-controlled social media, the Company Spokespersons will be responsible for ensuring that appropriate public disclosure has been made of any such information that could include or refer to material nonpublic information. The Company Spokespersons will be responsible for reviewing and maintaining the content of all corporate-controlled social media, approving all new material postings and directing the removal of any previously-posted, “stale” information. Company Spokespersons will also be responsible for ensuring that any links to social media sites from the Company website have an “exit screen” informing the visitor that they are leaving the Company’s website. Company Spokespersons will also be responsible for ensuring that any links to third-party websites on official Company social media pages are not “cherry-picked.”
